

SeniorNet's Living Archives provide individuals who lived during important historical events or during significant trends with an opportunity to share a legacy with younger generations. The Living Archives provides students and others with a resource to learn first-hand details about these events and trends and their effects on individuals.

We also help individuals chart their personal histories against a larger background. Read the article by

SeniorNet volunteer and genealogy instructor E. Betty Kaspar and learn about new DNA techniques in genealogy research. Ask questions and share tips in our Genealogy discussions

Participate in our Golden Age of Entertainment discussions.

Share your memories or questions about World War II .